Canadian Grown Tobacco Arrives In Port Richmond

Of interest to the tobacco trade in Danville is the report from Richmond that a few days ago the first consignment of Canadian grown tobacco arrived in that city, this being a lot consigned from the Province of Quebec. This shipment was put up in bales in a fashion similar to Turkish tobacco the invoice describing it as Canadian Burley. The Canadian tobacco is described as very coarse and strong and would most likely be used as a filler.

Few people probably are aware that tobacco is grown in Canada. It is quite a recent undertaking but it is growing. Two or three years ago some Pennsylvania farmers went to Canada upon request to instruct the northern cultivators in the nicotian growing harvesting and curing the weed.

Several of the notes managed to get by cashiers, and were later detected and officers called. The man was arrested, brought here and after several hours he made a confession, saying he had obtained the money in a liquor deal. The officers have learned differently, and he is believed to be a member of a gang in New York. Girl Is Missing After Fire Which Destroys Home

(By The Associated Press) WILSON, N. C., April 17.—Edna Eatmon aged 14, was missing today following a fire which destroyed the home of her father, D. E. Eatmon, farmer, who lives six miles from here, according to reports to the county authorities today.

Search of the ruins failed to reveal any trace of the body of the girl. According to members of the Eatmon family, Miss Eatmon went to her room at 9 p. m. last night and has not been seen since. The girl created a stir in the community two months ago when she eloped with R. E. Tomlinson, 18, the couple being married in South Carolina. SUGGESTS USE OF WORSHAM STREET BRIDGE FOR MOTORS

At the next meeting of the Danville Automobile association which was recently formed in this city to promote the interest of car owners, the question of urging the use of Worsham street bridge for motor vehicles will be brought up for discussion. This bridge, one of the oldest in Danville known also as the "high" bridge, has always been restricted to horse drawn vehicles and today is hardly used. It comes into use to the largest degree perhaps during the tobacco season when farmers prefer to use it to the street car bridge.

C. K. Carter is the originator of the idea that it be used for motor vehicles. Yesterday he stood on the bridge and remained there for about 15 minutes for the purpose of making a comparison of the traffic on the two bridges. When that time 200 vehicles passed over the street car bridge and one small delivery wagon was seen to traverse Worsham street bridge. The ratio would be materially increased at dinner time and at 6 o'clock in the evening when it is reported there is considerable congestion on the street car bridge.

Mr. Carter pointed out today that

Bilbo Hopes His Sentence Will Be Guide To Others

Speed Trap Signs Making Appearance

The supervisors of Tunstall district have authorized the erection of a number of "speed traps" at road intersections and on curves warning the drivers to throttle their machines down to 15 miles an hour or in compliance with the state law.

Some weeks ago the county traffic officers made application for the signs but the supervisors at that time felt that money involved in erecting the signs could be ill afforded and furthermore that it was not the place of the supervisors to erect them. Later however, Magistrate R. C. Collier volunteered to pay half the cost of erecting the signs and Shirley Carter, county engineer has been authorized to have them made. Two such signs already have been set up near Lovetown at that point on the Stokesland road where many motorists recently were caught exceeding the limit. Other signs will shortly make their appearance.

Traffic Officer Pugh today said that he was instrumental in the turning into the state treasury during the last month of $500 collected from fines imposed for violating the state law. He said he was now to carry alleged violators caught beyond. Design before Magistrate R. C. Collier and those apprehended between Danville and Design before Magistrate R. S. Fitts.

Former Executive of Mississippi Is Given Jailer's Own Quarters on His 30-Day Term.

JACKSON, Miss., April 17.—"I'm not a candidate for any public office at least until after I can dispose of this case," said Theodore G. Bilbo in the Lafayette county jail at Oxford today over the telephone when asked by the Jackson News if he would announce today his candidacy for governor as was reported last night.

(By The Associated Press) THEODORE G. Bilbo, former governor of Mississippi and central figure in the state's politics for 12 years, awoke in the Lafayette county jail today facing 29 more days of imprisonment. A sentence of 30 days having been imposed yesterday by Judge Holmes of the federal court, after the former executive had pleaded guilty to contempt of court in disregarding a summons to appear as a witness in the Russell-Birkhead case. Bilbo, in his cozy quarters, vacated by the jailer and his family, for the prisoner, Mr. Bilbo last night smoked his cigar, received his friends and wrote letters.

The door is unlocked and the windows without bars.

All evidence of physical restraint has been eliminated.

"The court's orders should be obeyed no matter who goes to jail," remarked the prisoner.

"Let me express the hope that my fate will have a tendency to inspire a more wholesome respect for the authority of the court. If it will my few days in jail is not in vain."

Dr. Flexner Says New Remedy Ends Fear of Diabetes

Insulin, Discovered by a Canadian Doctor, Goal That Evaded Search of Experts.

NEW YORK, April 17.—Insulin as a cure for diabetes, discovered accidentally by a young physician, not only has ended the fear of diabetes, but has also ended the search of experts.

The insulin treatment for diabetes resembles the use of thyroid extract in curing disease of the thyroid gland. Insulin is not a serum, but an extract, applied subcutaneously by hypodermic injection. It is not a substance in flesh food, rather a ferment obtained, mixed with some other substance, from the island tissue of the pancreas.

End of Diabetes Assured.

The insulin treatment was described by Dr. Flexner, who went into the history of diabetes at some length. It was not a new discovery, he pointed out, but a remedy that had been discovered, just as vaccination has ended smallpox. Nobody need have smallpox any more, he said, although scientists once believed every one had to have it once. Nowadays, he said, only those who want smallpox need have it, and the only ones who seem to want it are the anti-vaccinationists.

Montefiore Hospital was one of six institutions chosen to test the clinical value of insulin, reported President Greenbaum. For eight months now a special service with a special ward, all under the direction of Dr. A. I. Ringer, has been in operation. The final results are not yet ready, said Mr. Rosenbaum, but it can be stated that our results so far have confirmed the statements that insulin is of the greatest value in the treatment of diabetes and in severe cases will often save the lives of individuals who in former years would have succumbed despite the best medical care.

Mr. Rosenbaum reported Montefiore Hospital is much in need of funds. It is the largest private hospital in New York, yet last year it had $23,500 in "dead" and "treed" cases, 1,135 free patients, all chronic cases. The hospital's income in 1922 was $554,438, while its expenses amounted to $702,571, leaving a deficit of $148,133. The budget for 1923 calls for expenditure of $782,000, with an estimated deficit of $227,900.

Ruhr Fracas To Help U. S. Movie Field In France

WASHINGTON, April 16.—The irritation caused by the French occupation of the Ruhr has greatly reduced the number of German motion picture films exported to and exhibited in France thereby opening the way for American companies according to a report to Secretary of Commerce Hoover from the American Commercial Attache in Paris.

The competition of the United States and Germany in the French motion picture industry had become so keen before the occupation, the attaché stated, that the Comité Inter-allemande de Industrie Cinématographique Française addressed to its representatives in the Chamber of Deputies vigorous protests against this foreign development.

In these protests it was pointed out that France is far behind the United States in the production of motion pictures. The members of the French motion picture organization admitted, however, that this condition was due in a certain degree to the limitations of the French market. France having only about 2,500 movie houses, while the United States has 17,000 and Germany has 8,000.

The French producers expect many of their movie theatres to close this Spring, despite the fact that even now French production cannot meet the home market. The expense involved in producing elaborate pictures is so great that if the French succeed at all they must have an extensive acceptance abroad, where, however, they come into contact with the big American and German companies.

Leaders in the French motion picture industry are said to agree that the remedy lies in the reduction of taxes placed against movie theatres by the Government.

Bootleg Cars Are Sold At Chatham

Yesterday was "old court" day in Chatham at which time for many years past it has been customary for farmers from the entire section to gather for trading purposes. The occasion was seized upon yesterday to sell to the highest bidder eight automobiles which have been seized and seized by law officers for being used in the transportation of illicit spirits. Warren Fawell, a Lynchburg man, bought three of the cars which commanded fairly good prices, in view of the condition of the machines, one observer said today.

One sport model Studebaker car, the speedometer of which showed it had travelled 10,000 miles, was knocked out for $200. It was slightly bruised and it had been subjected to rough usage, though it was still outwardly apparently new, finished and with good wheels. This car was sold for having carried 110 gallons of liquor. One Dodge car brought $450, this machine being said to belong to one of the Ramsey brothers of Mountain Valley. Another Dodge, this a roadster, brought $250 and four Ford cars, which were bought by Frank County and owned there, was sold for $175. An Essex car, said to belong to George Phillips, was sold for $25. This car was that used by Traffic Officer J. W. Pugh for several weeks. He said today that the car had been assigned to him by the State Highway Department and that he had spent $100 in repair work on it.

In addition to Warren Fawell, of Lynchburg, who bought three of the cars, others who purchased cars were Sam Cate, Rocky Mount; John W. Hughes, Paddy, N. C.; May, Spang, Georgia; Waddy Davis, Greenville, and Henry Walden of Petersburg.

The first Monday in May will be observed in Henry county as "old court day" and some 35 automobiles are to be sold at auction then.

Two Boys Held On Charge Of Robbery

Boysy Wilson and Gunsey Halley, 18 and 19 respectively, are being held by the local police on charges of storebreaking and robbery. The youths have confessed to breaking into the general merchandise store of Charles Bailey, at New Design, and taking a lot of goods. They were arrested yesterday by Detectives J. C. Lewis and J. N. Campbell, even before news of the robbery had been reported.

The officers received information that the Wilson lad was in possession of a number of pocket knives. They went to his home on Lee street and finally caught the youth after he had tried to evade them. The boy saw the officers coming and ran under another house. They found a number of knives and a flashlight were found. A total of twenty-six knives were found.

The Bailey youth was implicated and the officers were soon at his home. There they found six new shirts and about twenty-five knives, making a total of about 50.

Both youths made a complete confession of the robbery and were arrested and placed in jail. Date of the hearing has not been set.

Damaging Fire In Bonded Warehouse

Cable advices from London telling of a damaging fire which broke out Sunday in one of the British government bonded warehouses in which 12,000,000 pounds of tobacco was either destroyed or damaged, has interested local dealers. Only meagre information as to the fire was given and it is not known what type of the warehouse was destroyed. Virtually every type of tobacco grown in different parts of the world is stored in London and there is no assurance that the leaf burned or damaged was of the Virginia variety.

It will probably be a week or ten days before local leaf dealers receive reports on the fire damage from their London representatives. Interest centres on the character of the tobacco destroyed, for if six thousand tons of bright leaf has been destroyed, it will probably result in the creation of new demand. It is, however, pointed out that the holdings in the bonded warehouses are enormous and that while on its face value the fire appears to have destroyed a tremendous quantity of leaf the amount lost is small when compared with the tremendous stocks on hand.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little, round, colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the work that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "laid," and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

Cross funds or of that organization's proper responsibility. Accordingly, in order that there should be complete understanding and ample notice, Colonel Haskell has been instructed to notify the Greek government of the intention to arrange to transfer to Greek authorities and to Greek charities on June 30 1928, the work now conducted and financed by the American Red Cross.

In announcing this decision, Judge John Barton Payne, national chairman of the Red Cross, said that the American Red Cross, in materials already shipped and in other expenses incurred had expended $2,594,448.51 from its disaster emergency relief funds for the Greek refugees.

"A daily feeding program is now reaching 500,000 of the most needy of these refugees," Judge Payne continued. "A sanitary and medical effort of wide scope and intensive nature has ward off epidemics which threatened. American charity has prevented the refugees and the population which received them from experiencing disaster in the fullest sense of the word. The situation is leaving a point where it can be better classed as an emergency. By midsummer there will be local crops of grain, fruits and vegetables."

GOOD ROADS IS ADVOCATED BY HARDING

(By The Associated Press)
GREENVILLE, S. C., April 16.—All of the instruments of transportation, throughout the country require unification and co-ordination with a view to the most complete systematization, President Harding said in writing to J. A. Roundtree, director general of United States Good Roads Association, in a letter read at the opening session of the joint convention of the United States Good Roads Association and the States Good Roads Association and the Bankhead National Highway Association here tonight.

He expressed the hope that through such organizations as the two meetings here, the closest co-operation between political and fiscal authorities can be obtained.

The president's letter follows: "The annual convention of the United States Good Roads Association at Greenville this month is an occasion of much interest to the entire country. I am writing to express the hope that it may be, in a very large way, a successful gathering, and a means to a helpful contribution toward a solution of this great national problem. I have been increasingly impressed in recent years with the essential unity of our entire problem of transportation; that is, with the fact that all the instruments of transportation, from the country roads to the railways, the waterways to our mercantile marine establishment require unification and co-ordination with a view to the complete systematization. I hope it may be possible, through your own organization and many others which are concerned with various phases of the transportation question, to bring about the closest possible co-operation between all the political and fiscal authorities which have to deal with the means of transportation."

His Remedy and Book Sent Free

Captain Collings sailed the seas for many years; then he sustained a bad double rupture that soon forced him to not only remain ashore, but kept him bedridden for years. He tried doctor after doctor and trust after trust. No results! Finally, he was assured that he must either submit to a dangerous and abortive operation or die. He did neither! He cured himself instead.

Captain Collings made a study of himself, of his condition—and at last he was rewarded by the finding of the method that so quickly made him a well, strong, vigorous and happy man. Anyone can use the same method. It's simple, easy, safe and inexpensive. WEEKLY BOOK REVIEW

APRIL FOLLY STRIKES TWO MODERN AUTHORS

BOOTH TARKINGTON

DEAN REVIEWS
"IMPROMPTU," by Elliott H. Paul (Knopf).
"THE FASCINATING STRANGER," by Booth Tarkington (Doubleday, Page).
Others briefly mentioned are: "The World Crisis," by Winston Churchill (Scrubners); "The Lone Winter," by Anne Bosworth Greene (Century); "A Man From Maine," by Edward Bok (Scribners); "From McKinley to Harding," by H. H. Kohlsaat (Scrubners); and "Some Impressions of My Elders," by St. John G. Ervine (Macmillan).

BY JAMES W. DEAN
(Special to The Bee)

NEW YORK, April 17.—The folly of April is in "Impromptu." The spirit of April—restlessness, dissatisfaction, neurosis—must have been upon Elliott H. Paul when he wrote the novel.

Paul characterizes his work as "a novel in four movements," but he doesn't achieve a symphony. The entire opus is in staccato. The emotional crescendo is never abated. Thus the reader is gathered up by the opening measures and swept along well into the middle of the book before he wears of the fast tempo.

"Impromptu" is as vivid as colorful as anything written in the past year. Scenes, characters, conversations action all are set down clearly and concisely. The musical flare of Paul often finds vent in passages as rhythmically measured as poetry. But that cravels nothing beyond delight in pretty wording. The author dresses a pig or two in silk and satin. One hopes that his main character may materialize in the flesh so that a slip in the fur may awaken some real interest in him.

Irwin Atwood is the central figure in "Impromptu." His boyhood is spent in a New England town as bleak and provincial as Gopher Prairie. He is a burden to his mother. He is ever engaged in some petty dishonesty.

Swept up in the war, one looks for some ennobling trait to develop, but it never does. To the very end he is a craven coward.

He steals small sums from his mother. He uses funds of his flat. He takes his buddy's life belt when he thinks his transport is about to sink. He complains of every petty task that fell to his lot in the army. He returns and sponges on a kindly employer.

Atwood meets Dorothy, the girl he left behind him when he enlisted. He had left her in a sorry predicament, but others had cared for her. When Atwood meets her again she is earning her livelihood in a manner generally considered unconventional, not to say immoral. He accepts money from her.

A professional dancer sees them at a Boston dancing pavilion. He offers them a place in New York. Dorothy's invalid sister is a burden that cannot be carried along. He believes he cannot be carried along. Atwood plans to murder her. He believes he causes her death when she collapses and dies. He re-enlists in the army.

When Paul wrote this story he evidently pledged himself to the truth. But he often tells the truth uncouthly. He goes too much into details regarding human functions. The ugliness lies in trivialities not essential to the story. That sort of thing constitutes posing.

Paul's flare for music is evidenced in this passage:
Thus the rhythmic plowing of many arms, the vigorous plowing ahead of strong young chests.
Legs in eights, tramp, tramp, tramp.
Faces to the front, tramp, tramp, tramp.

•The regulars.
Surge of caught breaths. Sting of unshed tears. The brick walls rock with cheers, caroming, rocketing, thundering back and forth between the swaying buildings. Windows ignite with a handkerchief blaze. Top windows cheer in soprano. Roaring disapprobation below.

The drums give warning of the naked red thrust of brass to come. The fighting mad trombones, the searing ruthless trumpets, the shattered glass of piccolos. The drum that rattles, the drum that booms. The band mounts the first crescendo.

April folly in Boston. Tarkington's new volume of short stories collected under the title of the principal one, "The Fascinating Stranger," but the neurosis is centered entirely in the characters. In almost every story in the volume Tarkington evolves a whimsical, humorous tale from some form of mental aberration. Thus in the title story we find Mr. Tuttle, who makes his home in a deserted limousine body and gains affluence through trading a stolen lavatory for a package of cigars, 75 cents and a diamond ring he thought worthless.

In another tale a young man is so upset by witnessing the Follies Bergeres that he was placed in a sanatorium for 15 years. After he returned to the world he could not account for the passage of time. His little niece appeared to have reached maturity overnight. She "threw a toddle" and the modern form of entertainment unbalanced his reason again.

These stories have appeared in various magazines. They do not form as substantial a contribution as Tarkington has made to literature heretofore, but they make excellent spring reading.

Turning The Pages.
Of course, Winston Churchill was expected to write a book on the war. He kept a written report of all his acts as first lord of the admiralty and of his many speeches. "The World Crisis," is based on them—When summer comes read "The Lone Winter." It is Anne Bosworth Greene's first book and deals with her experiences on a Vermont farm through winter months—Two recent biographies, not as romantic as "Barnum," but as notable of American progress, are "A Man From Maine," by Edward Bok, and "From McKinley to Harding," by H. H. Kohlsaat. The man from Maine is Cyrus Curtis, publisher. Kohlsaat's book is an intimate account of his acquaintance with six presidents—The leading literary lights of England are painted at first hand in "Some Impressions of My Elders," by St. John G. Ervine.

MILLION GIVEN TO SCHOOL FUND

FRANKFORT, Ky., April 15.—A gift of $1,000,000 and 16,000 acres of rich timber lands from E. O. Robinson, Fort Thomas, Ky., capitalist, to be used in the educational, agricultural and economic development of the mountains of eastern Kentucky, was announced here today by E. C. O'Rear, president of the board of trustees of the newly incorporated E. O. Robinson Mountain fund.

The University of Kentucky, Lexington, will take active charge of the work of development, according to Judge O'Rear, who with other members conferred with the board of trustees of the university, as to the best methods of carrying the state's institution of learning into the mountains of Kentucky.

The program, now only in embryonic form, calls for development of the entire mountainous section of the state on a scale hitherto undreamed of, according to Judge O'Rear.

No "strings" are tied to the gift, according to Judge O'Rear and the trustees are at liberty to spend it as they see fit. It is found advisable to put the money up so that the state or federal funds may become available, that can be done.

Mr. Robinson owned considerable property involved in the recent Henry Ford deal, and it is reported he disposed of approximately 40,000 acres and when Ford took over the Peabody holding in Kentucky.

OHIO MIDGETS REBUILD HOME TO FIT THEIR SIZE

LIMA, Ohio, April 16.—Remodeling of their home and construction of special furniture for Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Wetherill, local residents, have just been completed. Wetherill, 50, is four feet one inch tall. His wife, 45, is four feet four inches in height. They are believed to be the smallest couple in Ohio.

"Ordinary furniture was too large and inconvenient for us. That is why we decided on special tables and furniture to correspond," explained Wetherill, who spent nearly four months fitting up the home. He did much of the remodeling himself, in accord with the ideas of his wife. Wetherill is a rural free mail delivery carrier.

LITTLE JOURNEYS

to the Homes of Friends of

CARDUI

Mrs. Larrison of Illinois

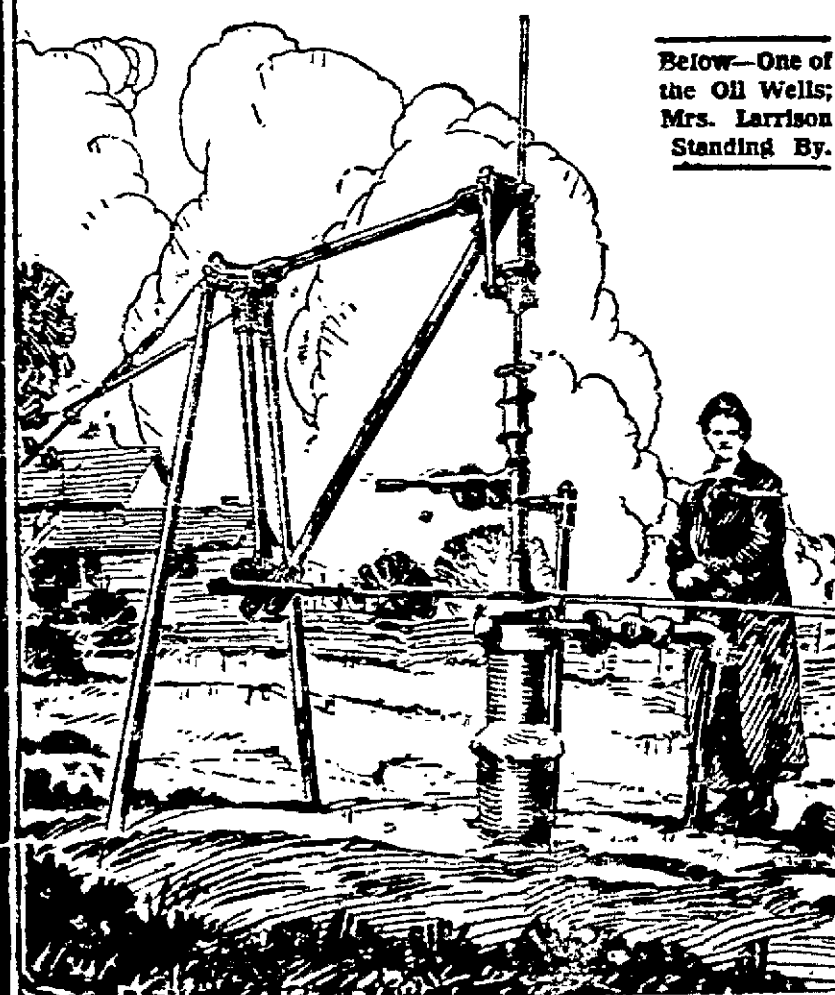

DOWN in the rich farming belt of Southern Illinois lives Mrs. Mary Alice Larrison, about 40 miles from Terre Haute, who one day wrote a letter telling of the benefit she had received from Cardui, the woman's tonic. One of our lady investigators, being in that neighborhood, was detailed to make a little journey to her home and learn some further facts about her use of the medicine. Her report follows:

Casey, Illinois, where Mrs. Larrison lives, is a picturesque little town on the Pennsylvania Railroad. Twelve miles from Casey the Larrison farm lies amid wide-spreading fields dotted with bursting barns, cribs of corn, herds of fine white cattle and hogs.

We drove out to the farm—to a white house with green window shutters and a wide porch. A little terrier, followed by two spotted pups, greeted us and summoned Mr. Larrison. We were cordially invited in, and I introduced myself to Mrs. Larrison. She said she had been expecting a rich aunt, and whenever she saw a stranger coming imagined the visitor might be the long-looked-for relative. I hastened to assure her how I regretted that she should be disappointed again, since I had only called to inquire about her use of Cardui and to take some pictures, if she would permit, to print with her statement. She replied that, in this case, she was as glad to see me as if I had been the wealthy "lost" aunt herself.

Some twenty-odd years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Larrison bought the farm on which they now live. It has been the childhood home of their fourteen children, the youngest of which is 14 years old. Mrs. Larrison told me that care for her large family had called for millions of steps "and many corners to turn to give them what they needed," but happily she had come through it all with sound, robust health, due partly, so she said, to Cardui.

About sixteen years ago when oil was struck in Clark County, Illinois, wells were drilled on the Larrison place. While they did not come in gushers, or even yield a heavy flow, they have withstood steady pumping for sixteen years, and probably will hold out many years longer. I went out into the back yard with Mrs. Larrison and examined and photographed one pump which was pounding away.

A Portrait of MRS. MARY ALICE LARRISON

She pointed out several others, out in the fields, some of which we visited. These not only yield a substantial income to the Larrisons, but one furnishes natural gas for kitchen fuel, a great convenience.

The back yard was full of chickens, and out on the pasture I saw upwards of 100 hogs. Some dozen or more big porkers were enclosed in a barnyard lot for special feeding. They were enormous. I saw several pens of yellow corn that was to be fed to the hogs, and there was scarcely an ear that looked less than a foot in length. They also had large stores of potatoes and apples, cord after cord of furnace wood, a room full of books and a newspaper every day—why should they worry that it was winter, snowing, and twelve miles from town!

What Mrs. Larrison Says About Cardui, The Woman's Tonic

ABOUT 20 years ago I was in very bad health. I had some nervous trouble. I was weak. I couldn't rest. I was never hungry, but always tired; couldn't sit down contented and still not able to go about—a dragging, tired feeling like I had weights on my feet, and I would give out.

I heard of Cardui and what a help it was for weak women. I sent for six bottles. I had not taken it long till I felt stronger. I would eat and it seemed to help the nervous, tired feeling. I grew stronger. I took twelve bottles in all and for a long time I never knew what it was to feel bad.

When change of life began with me, down I went again—nervous, depressed, sick all over. I was so weak . . . it looked like life was ebbing out of me. I hurt in the lower part of my body. I felt sore across the sides. My family was very uneasy about me when I was down in bed, not able to get up. I tried medicines . . . still I lay there. I then remembered Cardui. I sent for it, and when I had taken one-half bottle I felt better. The family insisted, seeing it was doing me good, so I took it right along. Soon I was out of bed, able to go about.

I owe my health to Cardui, I feel sure. I was much benefited.

SEEK TO OBTAIN
LARGER SHARE

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 16.—An attempt will be made in the next Congress to increase to 50 per cent the share of states from the sale of government timber from reservations within their border.

Chairman McNary of the Senate reforestation committee, in a letter today to W. D. Greely, government chief forester, said the present allowance of 25 per cent was not enough, adding that because of the impairment of their taxing powers by the forest reserves, the states should receive at least one-half of the gross receipts.

FLIERS ARE OFF
ON TEST FLIGHT

(By The Associated Press)
DAYTON, O., April 16.—Flying at an average speed of 77 miles an hour, Lieutenants John A. MacReady and Oakley Kelly, McCook Field pilots, early tonight had completed twenty laps of the course they are following in an effort to set a new endurance record of 40 hours of sustained flight, in eight hours and 37 seconds.

They took off at Wilbur Wright Field at 9:51 o'clock this morning. Ground observers at Wilbur Wright Field, the key point of the 31 mile triangular course pursued by the fliers in the T-2, say they believe the ship is functioning perfectly.

Gigantic search searchlights at McCook and Wilbur Wright were brought into use when darkness set in to facilitate a possible forced landing. Weather conditions are ideal for the flight. Low clouds appeared this afternoon, but the skies cleared and predictions say clear weather will prevail during the remainder of the night.

For the first few laps the flight was conducted at altitude of about five or six hundred feet. This was due to the main to the huge amount of weight. Loaded for the flight the T-2 weighed 10,800 pounds.

As the flight progresses, the T-2 is gaining altitude, and at six o'clock it was more than 1,000 feet high. Lieutenants Kelly and MacReady both expressed confidence in their ability to set a new record on this flight. It is the first attempt at an endurance flight since the same pilots were forced down on March 30 because of engine trouble, after having been in the air for 30 hours and 53 minutes. A new type low compression Liberty motor was installed in the ship for this flight, and although this motor requires slightly more gasoline and consequently will make the time of the flight shorter, it is believed, it will stand up under the strain and enable the setting of a new endurance record.

The speed of the T-2 is greater today than it was during the former attempt to set a record March 30. This was accounted for by the absence of a high wind which confronted the pilots on that occasion. The absence of this wind also made the take off this morning more hazardous.

With little or no wind, the ship ran down the field more than two thousand feet before the tail lifted from the ground and more than half a mile before the wheels were off the ground.

JOE WATKINS IS BADLY BEATEN

Joe Watkins, familiar character with the police, came into town last night from a certain vicinity, situated on the Yanceyville road and approached officers to report something to them, but Watkins was badly beaten, for his head had been badly beaten and his blood soaked clothing indicated clearly that he had been bleeding freely. In a nutshell, Watkins complained that he had been brutally attacked by several men, and they went to the scene. As a result a warrant is out for Lawhorne's arrest.

According to Watkins' story, he met up with Lawhorne and several other men and a crap game was suggested. They drove out of town for several miles in the direction of Yanceyville and found a nice spot convenient and suitable for rolling bones. Watkins states that he refused to join a game unless it was for "ten dollars a crack." This was agreed to, and the game was on. Quite naturally a dice shooter thinks when the man with the galloping dominoes rolls a winner three times in succession, something is wrong. Evidently this is the view Lawhorne held. Watkins must have put up the "English" on the board with ten dollars on each play, he successfully rolled three times. Lawhorne then became furious, ought a stick and began pounding Watkins unmercifully, so the latter's story goes. The reason for the attack is lacking for the same reason that he is lacking, to give it.

TEMPLE CELEBRATION OF ASCENSION DAY

Ascension Day, one of the great events in the ecclesiastical calendar as well as in the Christian branch of Masonry, will be celebrated with appropriate solemnity and fitting exercises in the auditorium of the Masonic Temple on Thursday evening, May 16th, at 8:30 o'clock, by Dove Commandery No. 7, Knights Templar.

The commemoration will be marked by beautiful solemnity and impressiveness. Attendance will be limited to the members of the commandery, their families and friends whom they may invite. The seating capacity of the hall is about 400, and it is therefore necessary to put some limit on the attendance.

The program is in charge of the following committee: Rev. J. Cleveland Hall, D. D., grand prelate of the Grand Commandery of Virginia; Chairman: Eminent P. F. C. Way, D. H. Penn, W. D. Overton, J. W. Townes and Sir Knight E. H. Marshall.

The full program is now being arranged. The music which will be a prominent feature of the celebration will be under the direction of Sir Knight William H. Parker, assisted by a specially selected choir. Extra will be made to secure the attendance of as many of the 300 or more members of the commandery as practically possible.

"Death Better Than Motherhood!"

Mrs. Cora Miller, the dilapidated house of tragedy, and her four surviving children, three sons and five-year-old Lena, who narrowly escaped being choked to death along with her seven-year-old sister, Cora.

(Special to The Bee)
ELMIRA, N. Y., April 17.—"My poor darling, you will be happier in heaven!"

A mother's mournful benediction of death is pronounced over an over-whelmed woman, Mrs. Cora Miller, who died yesterday in the St. Lawrence Hospital.

Always a nurse sits there, day and night, so the mother cannot again try to kill herself.

There isn't any regret in Mrs. Miller's death, she said a dismal joy in the memory that little seven-year-old Cora is dead, and she mourns only because five-year-old Lena did not die too, and that she herself lives to face motherhood, now quite imminent for the sixth time.

Children's sutured a cloth was the means she used one night to try to kill her two little daughters, and when she had placed it over the faces of the sleeping girls she plunged her own face in it and lay beside them waiting for death.

But the drug wore away and she awoke to find her plan only partly accomplished. Cora was dead, but Lena was only unconscious, and she cried out wildly for death for herself and Lena, too.

Only Wanted Death
For Her Two Girls

That pained her husband, Fred Miller, and their three sons, sleeping in other rooms in the isolated shack. Its echoes shocked the village of Waverly with news of an unparalleled tragedy.

She only wanted her little girls to die, not the three little boys, she said when county officials came and found her weeping as she sat holding the body of her dead child in her arms.

"They both be happier in heaven," she said. "Then they couldn't marry and be mothers."

In the hospital her mournful voice keeps repeating that.

"Oh, I wanted to save them from the agony I have endured," she tells the nurse, sitting there. "They mustn't have the agony I have had bringing my children into this hard world. My poor darling, I only wanted to bring them joy and to save them from sorrow and suffering."

The mother is only 30, married when she was 16. Her husband is 34. He comes to see her, strokes her head, and says as if eager to absolve her.

"Poverty and the dreary monotony of the farm were too much for her. She never complained though, until she found she was to become a mother the sixth time. She has been terribly depressed since then. I tried to cheer her up—but she was so lonely."

No charge of crime stands against Mrs. Miller in the records of Chemung county. Officials and the police of Waverly are deeply moved by the sad case, and she has not been placed under arrest.

Children Had no Toys
And Never Saw Movies

After her baby is born she will be examined by a commission of physicians to determine her sanity, and then legal action in the matter of little Cora's death will be decided upon.

Meanwhile the Local Order of Moose are holding a benefit for the family. Out there in the little shack five miles from Waverly, there are just four rooms; mother and daughters slept in one, the three boys in another, and the father in the combination living and dining room. They carried water from the well, there were no shutters at the windows, no porch on the roughboard shack.

The children have never owned a toy. They attended school two miles away, but they never saw a movie and never rode in an automobile. When Mrs. Miller was brought to the hospital in the sheriff's car it was her first automobile ride.

Of Objectionable Hairs

(Aids to Beauty.)

A simplified method is here given for the quick removal of hairy or fuzzy growths and rarely is more than one treatment required. Mix a stiff paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and every hair has vanished. This simple treatment cannot cause injury, but care should be exercised to get real delatone.—adv.

Tariff Board Has Completed Report
On Price Of Sugar

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 16.—The tariff commission practically completed its preliminary report to the president on the tariff phase of the sugar price situation today and the chairman, Marvin, expressed the belief that the White House tomorrow, only minor details remain to be worked out.

After the report is in his hands the president is expected to confer with the commission members, probably late tomorrow or Wednesday. It is known that the president plans to discuss with them not only the effect of the tariff duties on recent sugar price increases, but to take up the controversy that has existed in the commission for several months over a policy of procedure under the flexible provisions of the tariff act.

Mr. Harding wants to iron out the differences but desires, in so doing, it is said, that the policy finally determined on shall be one which will be supported by all members of the commission. Whether the conference will result in a decision that the commission go ahead and make a sweeping study of all rates or whether it shall investigate only the rates against which complaints have been filed is highly problematical.

Some members of the commission feel that a decision to act only in cases where complaints have been lodged with the commission would make the flexible provisions of the tariff act almost worthless while the other group insist that a general study of the rates was not intended by Congress. Inasmuch as Mr. Harding personally proposed that the last certain flexible provisions govern the executive branch of the government the right to raise or lower duties within a maximum fixed by Congress, the result of the conference on the question is being awaited with more than usual interest.

No inkling of the nature of the preliminary sugar price report has been given by tariff commission members, but its contents have been generally forecast as declaring in substance that the sugar prices have fluctuated without relation to the import duties imposed in the various years. The report, it is understood, contains detailed price figures over a period of years and set out opposite these statistics are the import duties in effect at the various times.

It has not been disclosed whether the commission has made in its report a positive declaration that the recent prices of sugar are wholly without relation to the import duties, but the tenor of the report, it is believed, will bear out that thought.

The commission's field investigators are continuing their efforts at gathering production cost figures in half a dozen countries, including the cost of manufacturing and refining sugar in this country. These figures, when completed, will show in detail whether the present tariff duties properly represent the difference in cost of production in the United States and elsewhere.

At the Department of Justice, General Daugherty, now at Asheville, N. C., recuperating from illness, was in possession of all facts obtained thus far by the Department in its investigation of fluctuations in sugar prices. Acting Attorney General Severance, who has been in charge of the inquiry, discussed the situation today with Mr. Daugherty over the telephone. Copies of reports and other data laid before the president and his cabinet last Friday, it was stated, are in the attorney general's hands.

Mr. Seymour said he has been directed by Mr. Daugherty to continue the investigation "vigorously."

Priest Slayer
Begins Term Of Life In Prison

KALAMAZOO, Mich., April 16.—Rev. Father Charles Dillon, confessed slayer of his superior, Father Henry O'Neill, pastor of St. Augustine's Catholic church here, tonight was on his way to the branch of the State prison at Marquette. There he will lay aside the habiliments of a priest, which he has worn for years and don the uniform of his new life, the gray, rough uniform of the penal institution.

Father Dillon, refusing to plead for mercy on the ground of insanity and declaring he was "ready to pay" received the life sentence today from Circuit Judge George C. Weaver.

Father Dillon shot Father O'Neill at the dinner table in the priest's home last Thursday night. The slaying was the culmination of a grievance nursed for weeks by Dillon, who was assistant to the slain priest. His superior, Father Dillon said, treated him "like a child."

The confessed slayer, although his criminal act, automatically unfrocked him, clings to his faith. He has spent much of the time since his arrest in reading his Bible. The Bible was numbered among the few personal possessions that he took with him to Marquette.

Father Dillon wore the conventional black and the Roman garb when he departed in company with a police captain. He will remove these symbols of his calling until he arrives at Marquette.

The confessed slayer hopes to continue his missionary work among the prisoners at Marquette, he said before his departure.

"I am no longer a priest," he said, "but I will do what I can while in prison to teach the way of life to others."

Judge Weaver, after receiving the slayer's plea of guilty, took him into his private chambers for a conference before passing sentence. After the sentence, the judge announced that during the conference he had explained to Dillon with much care the matter of legal insanity.

"The respondent is highly intelligent and capable of understanding all that has been said to him," the court said. "He insists that he was not driven by any uncontrollable impulse, that he understood the difference between right and wrong, that he had no legal nor moral right to kill Father O'Neill. He says his act was deliberate and premeditated, that he has been harboring a grievance against his superior for a long time and that he purchased the gun a few days before the shooting for the purpose of killing Father O'Neill at this occasion alone."

Father Dillon was not a priest of the Michigan diocese, having been a visitor here and permitted to assist wherever his services might be needed.

AGED PAIR TO ADOPT HERO

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., April 16.—After caring for him as a son for the last twenty-three years, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Goodsell of Newtown, Conn. here, today signified their intention of legally adopting Frank Goodsell, son of Goodsell, thirty-four-year-old World War veteran, whom they took from an orphan's home in Brooklyn when he was eleven.

Mr. Goodsell will be eighty in June while his wife is seventy-seven. They never had any children of their own, but previous to taking Frank they adopted a boy who died later.

Not only has Frank Carlson Goodsell filled the role of a son in the Goodsell home, but he also brought joy into the aged couple's hearts when he was cited for gallantry under fire in a little French town about twenty miles from Metz. Frank served as a Sergeant in Company L, 56th Infantry.

The adoption, which will be reviewed at a hearing in the Newton Probate Court April 25, will entitle Frank to use the name of Goodsell and will assure him of the inheritance of the estate of his benefactors.

Rev. Morrison Betha, archdeacon of the Episcopal denomination, assisted by Rev. J. L. Martin, rector of the local Episcopal church, conducted a successful mission in Roxboro the past week. The use of the Methodist church was tendered by Rev. Mr. Hutley, pastor, as the Episcopalians are using a hall pending the erection of their house of worship.

A building to house the inmates of the county farm was authorized by the County's commissioners recently, and at the April meeting a contract was let for $53,000. There are but few inmates, but the building will make them comfortable and is up-to-date in all respects.

The postoffice department has accepted the bid of Claude T. Hall, of Roxboro, to leave quarters for the postoffice in a building to be erected by him on South Main street. The lease will be for a term of 10 years. The contract will include equipment.

FIRST FLOOD IN OHIO SINCE STATE WENT DRY CAUSES GENERAL SPIREE BRIDGEPORT, Ohio, April 18. Not since Ohio went dry some time before Uncle Sam followed suit—has there been a real flood in cities and towns along this section of the Ohio River—a flood that covered the streets, flooded homes and stores and halted all traffic.

When a big flood visited Bridgeport many persons got wet on the inside also. It was said that men who never got drunk at any other time were sozzled during flood time.

Since prohibition put the kiosk on dispensing wet goods, the river has never made its appearance in the street to tempt flood-time booze lovers into drinking bootleg liquor. The last big local flood occurred ten years ago, when the heavy rains that swept Ohio caused local streams to rise so high that four persons were drowned in this vicinity.
